Hongkons, February 2nd, 1907.

Shanghai, at first a little alarmed at the idea of Chinese Volunteers, has now made up its mind to make the best of them, and to welcome them. They appear in the guise of one disarming a possible enemy by the courtesy and kindness of their reception of him. "When the Chinese Physical Association was first formed," says the N.-C. Daily News, "we confess to have shared, E. and R. Abraham. with most foreigners in Shanghai, a certain amount of distrust in regard to its motives and purposes. As a distinct headquarters either in or on the borders of the Settlement, it offered to promote friction from time to time between the Chinese authorities here. foreign and then recent had proved the necessity, in any time of emergency, that all the organized armed forces in the Settlement should be under the direct control of the foreign authority, and there was not too much disposition at that time to regard any help from the natives of this country as likely to be trustworthy. The subsequent course of events and the negotiations leading up to the inclusion of the Chinese Company in the ranks of the S.V.C. have been, however, a testimony to the good faith t of those who organized the new body, and to the good sense of the representatives the foreign community, in recognizing a real desire on the part of Chinese, who have a stake in the Settlement, to take a practical part in the defence of those interests." With the first expressions of that distrust we found some fault, pointing out that the semblance of nervousness could not fail to behaving in a disorderly manner. Mr. impress the Chinese, and so enhance any danger that there might be, besides being unworthy of a brave people. It was not in accordance with the spirit of the Maoris who made truce and even sent provisions to their starving foes, and the gallant volunteers of Shanghai should not yield best to any fighting men, even of New Zealand. To say to the new corps of Chinese Volunteers. " you may organize, but you musto't carry-arms," was doubtless a prudent-view to take, but it did not look well. In effect, it would seem there are people who are willing to advise the Chiffese to "reform," to arise from their sorry state of sloth, and to emulate other peoples; but who shudder at the thought that the Chinese may one day be able to fight instead of run. this militarism of theirs is a necessary step elected :- Colonel Aitkin, Major Parker. to the reformation advised. A strong, virile people can afford to be honest; the weakling must continue to fight for his own interests by guile and trickery. Our Shanghai contemporary admits that the rehabilitation of the profession of arms will tend to enhance the national self respect In its germ, the idea is acceptable, though its form of expression be misleading. So arrogant a people cannot be said to lack self-respect, and we know that it has been a sort of self-respect, a pride of intellect, that has put the Chinese fighting man on a contemptible level of public opinion In theory—in choirs and places where they sing-there- is also a western fashion of speering at soldiering as a method of barbarism, and in some cases a disposition to put an end to it. Perhaps their success would put European nations into the shoes that China has worn for so long; perhaps it would not; we do not profess to know all the hypothetical results of all the unlikely events that are prayed for or prophesied. What this spirit of militarism will do for China, if properly directed, is not to enhance the national self-respect but to substitute a new variety; and though during past one, the above match will take place on the the process of exchange it may breed trouble for the foreigner, its effects ultimately ought not to be detrimental to him. Big strong dogs snarl less than little curs, and a self-reliant, independent people are less prone to double-dealing of any kind. To be ready to fight is to be less ready to He; at least this is a natural assumption. Adopted and encouraged as they now are, the Shanghai native Volunteers will, we trust, progress in more than mere skill at arms. The provincial armies should also have a like leavening effect, and in time all for signers may realize that China's awakening militarism is not an unmixed evil. In any case, for reasons we have often stated, it will be a long time before it becomes any thing to warrant nervousness.

Lord Charles Beresford, when a commander, was once at Valparaiso at a moment when a tramear had run off the line. He watched the scene, and a group of British bluejackets also looked on. The mob of surging and voluble Chilians could not replace the car. Lord Churles, the "Express" says, hailed a boatswain's mate and bade him pipe "All hands clear street." The bluejackets ontered into the jest with such spirit that very soon the yelling and profesting crowd was driven away from the tram. " Now re-ship that car," Lord Charles said. "Al together now-one, two, three!" and back went the wheels on the metals.

At a meeting of the Council of the Royal Colonial Institute last month, the 260th Fellow for 1906 was elected. The last batch included Lord | Igin (Colonial Secretary) and Mr. H . Lake Coghlan (Straits Settlements).

Mr. C. Lejeune, the Acting French Consul, summoned a chair coolie before Mr. F. A. Hazeland at the Magistracy yesterday for demanding more than his legal fare, and Lejeune engaged th chair at the King. Edward Hotel and preceded to Government House, returning to the Hotel in about twenty-five minutes. He gave the cialie a fifty cent piece and waited for the change Defendant only gave him 10 cents back and afterwards pretended that he had only received 20 cents. He became disorderly and attracted a replied, and the Duchess started the large crowd. His Worship imposed a fine of $2 on each charge.

At a meeting of the Gymkhana Club held at Messrs. THE VOLUNTEERS' BALL.

Needless to say there was a strong muster at the City Hall last night when the gallant Volunteers held their annual dance, which, as usual, was an unqualified success. The skilful work of the decoration committee must have been apparent to all who attended this popular function, and certainly it was deserving of the greatest praise. Passing through the entrance to the hall the massive pillars leading to the stairs were observed to be tastefully entwined Proceeding, plaintiff stated that he was claiming with creeper, while a mass of shrubbery filled up the gaps between, the grim muzzles of a number 1906, and four days in January, 1907. Pot. plants lined his employment because the defendant dis- the sides of the staircase, the balustrades being covered with greenery out of which peeped vari-coloured electric lights. On the pillars at the first landing two small brass yacht guns, finely burnished, pointed at the arrivals, most of whom lingered to inspect the mod I sand bag fort in which more maxims were visible. In this there was also a searchlight projector, built at the Volunteer Headquarters, which illuminated the wall opposite, on which was displayed the banner of our citizen soldiers. This was surrounded by the Volunteer colours, red, yellow and blue, while the Union Jack hung at either side. Above the searchlight in the fort were numerous Volunteer flags, contral among them being the banner with the device of the corps, "Nulli Secundus in Oriente," a motto which every unit of the corps acted up to in the conduct of the ball. In each corner of the first landing stood a diver's dress, and from the face glass of the helmet a bright light shops forth, lighting the guests up the second flight of stairs to the ball rooms. On entering St. Andrew's Hall it was noticed that the same array of flags covered the walls and drooped from the ceilings, while each pillar displayed its circle of shining daggers beneath which was arranged a stand of boarding pikes St. George's Hall presented a similar appearence, and in a passage way which led from one hall to the other the band of the Middlesex Regiment, by whom music was provided, took their stand. Here again the Volunteer colours were prominent, and drooped in maypole shape over the bandstand. The old Chamber of Commerce room was reserved for suppor, and the bar and cardroom, as on the occusion of the previous dance, was in the library.

The Volunteers looked spic and span in their white uniforms, and the effect of the picture presented during the dancing was heightened by the presence of a number of their Defendant-The sign of my business is comrades-in-arms, the regulars, in the more gaudy uniforms of their regiments It now remains to the various committees in charge of the Defendant-Because the bailiff handed arrangements did the work assigned to them the writ to one of my fokis. The Guild are now informed by the Marine Superint adent of the Line, Captain F. W. On the question of accommodation Mr. Sanderson states that where the Marine Superintendent American patients mainly, and for Euro- finds officers being insufficiently accommodated he will be good enough to make the necessary all report and the firm will, as heretefore, when such cases have come before them, make such arrangements as to make them thoroughly comfortable. It is stated that it will be obvious to all the officers that on the ships of recent lives and characters have deserved, well of the construction no officers in England have had better quarters given to them. The firm state that they find it impracticable to deviate on the question of pay from the basis of seniority. without creating a very complicated system which inevitably from time to time would result in hardships, to officers who will be transferred from trade to trade for their own and for the Company's benefit, in order that they shall become as competent as possible in all trades. Mr. Sanderson concludes by stating that the firm trust that these increases of pay will be appreciated in the same spirit that they are granted, viz : -as an evidence of the Chairman and Directors' appreciation of their loyalty and faithful service, and recognition of their increased responsibilities, necessitating greater energy in these days of growing competition. A special circular has also been issued by the Line informing the officers that in addition to the increase of pay the Company will still pay one third towards the cost of the officers' uniform, and further, will in future provide the officers free of cost, with one uniform overcost, per annum. DIOCESAN SCHOOL.

PRESENTATION OF PRIZES

The annual distribution of prizes at the Dioceran School took place yesterday and was attended by a large and interesting gathering. His Excellency the Governor was present and performed the principal ceremony of the occasion. Mr. G. H. Pietcy, headmaster, presided, and amongst these present were the Hon. Mr. E. A. Hewett, Hon. Dr. Atkiuson, Mr. R. A. B. Ponsonby (private secretary to H.E.), Mr. E. A. Irving (Inspector of Schools), Rev. F. T. Johnson, Rev. J. H. France, Rev. Dr. Pearce, Rev. A. J. Stevens, Rev. A. J. Barnett, Dr. Wilder, (American Consul General), Dr. Sebree, Rev. C. Bone, Mr. W. D. Braidword and others.

Before commencing the proceedings Mr. Piercy on behalf of the teaching staff and scholars offered congratulations-to-His-Fixcellency on his restoration to health.

The Headmaster then read the report, in which, after a feeling reference to the loss sustained by the death of Bishop Houre, he stated: The enrolment during the year was 314, the average attendance was 222 5 against 195 last year, and an increasing number of boys did not miss an attendance on the 235 school days. In April 5 boys entered the publi competition for medals and prizes offered by the Belilios Trustees; we carried off the first three prizes and bracketted with 2 boys from another school for the fourth prize. At the Oxford Local Examination held in July, 3 boys passed the preliminary, 4 the junior and 5 the senior. This is the first occasion on which we have had more than 3 successful in the senior. During the autumn the Government lent us the excellent lantern and splendid slides prépared under the auspices of the League of the Empire in England for use in the Colonies, and Mr. Brawn ably delivered a series of 13 geographical lectures to very appreciative audiences from the Diocesan Girls' School, Fairles Girls' School and our own upper classes. He wrote in his report: "The pupils' interest in the homeland has been aroused and their knowledge of it considerably increased. These I take it are the objects of the lantern lectures. My satisfaction is based on the letters I have received and the eagerness with which the children looked forward to the lectures." In December the new Belilios Trustoes offered $10 tesm in accordance with H.E. the Governor's arrangements entered for the elementary hygicne shield; we have not yet had the results. | English. Last season the school team won the championship of the Hougkong Schools' Football League, and the shield found its first resting place with us. In this competition 23 points were gained out of a possible 24. and only one goal was scored against us. The Football league having drawn away the at -fention of other solools from cricket, we went further unield for opponents and so had were given, and with the singing of the some pleasant and sometimes successful games with the second elevens of the Civil Service, Police and Craigengower. Mr. Brawn has taken an active interest in sport and our successes are largely-due to his fostering care and training. The bathing seagon was brought to an abrupt conclusion by the September typhcon; so our annual aquatic sports did not take place. The boarding accommodation of the school has been fully occupied all the year; the health of the boys has been good excepting the last few weeks, when colds and sore throats have been too common Our thanks are again due to the medical staff of the Civil Hospital for their kind attention in cases of accident and sickness, and to the following gentlemen for providing prizes :-Hen, Mr. E. said :- Mr. Piercy, I thank you for the kind congratulation you have tendered to me on behalf of the school. Ladies and gentlemen, in coming here this morning it was natural that I should think of the previous occasion when I gave the prizes at this school. Then I was supported by the Bishop of Victoria: It was a source of gratification to me and it was so doubt to you that Mr. Piercy should have made a sympathetic reference to our lost Bishop. The loss lias been a great one to the Colony and to this school. The loss has not been complete. for the Bishop left behind a memory and an example a memory of a beloved personality and an example of a life well lived and a death well met. Turning to the report which had been read by Mr. Piercy no doubtit struck a few as it struck me that it must have been very gratifying for him to be able to present such a record of good and continuous progress. The school has followed the lendency of schools in Hongkong to have an increased a erago attendance, the increase in this case being 14 per cent for last year. And what is more important, the school continues to be thoroughly efficient and earns the Government's greatest grant. It has had more than the usual number of successes at the Oxford Local Examinations and also at the examination held by the Belilios Trustees. And then, | for the Flag." aithough it has hitherto not known it, it has won the shield for the elementary hygiene | cristet-bat. competition (Applause). The report of an outside examiner is most satisfactory, not to say enthusinatic. Mr. Stevens strikes me as being a perfect Mark Tapley among examiners, deriving satisfaction oven from information given in wrong answers. (Laughter). Less enthusiastic but on the whole favourable is the report of the Inspector of Schools. He mentious among other things that there has been progress in the study of history, a subject which was weak in the school, and in order to encourage the study of which I have presented and shall, continue to present a special prize (Applause). There are two points of unfavourable criticism in Mr. Irving's report, and I trust the management will see fit to give attention to them. One is that promotion is sometimes too rapid. It seems very obvious that : as a prize to the boy who wrote the best answers boy ought not to be, promoted to the higher to questions set by the Inspector of Schools on | class until he is thoroughly well up in the subthe subject matter of the lectures; this was jects of the lower class. A SUGGESTION FOR HIS EXCELLENCY.

GUBIRNATORIAL CONFERENCES.

After referring to the conference of admirals | to contain, at Singapore, the Free Press of Jan. 26th goes

There is, however, another aspect in which wo think there is ample room for mutual consultation, even if that does not immediately translate itself into co-operation. The suggestion comes to our mind really from the passing visit of H.E. Sir Matthew Nathan, of Hongkeng, on return from Java to his own Colony. It is to be regretted that Sir Metthew Nathan had to take the trip at all, but that was unavoidable, in order that he should have a fair opportunity to shaking off his recent severe accident at polo. As it so happened, Sir Morrison, who must have been greatly Maithew Nathan saw nothing of this Colony. nor would it have been advisable that he shouldhave attempted to do, and so have incurred fatigue. And yet, when we come to think of all the numerous ways in which the administration of this Colony is bound to deal with common topics and interests with the Government of Hougkong, it would be at once admitted that nothing but good could between the Governors of Singapore and Hong. kong. Official correspondence is indispensable. and it compels exact thinking and precise definition of purpose and opinion. But imagine Sir Matthew Nathan having to consider some question referring to the working of coolie emigration from Hongkong to the Straile; tion and consideration of many topics of to have persuaded the officials of Shanghai common interest to Hongkong and the Straits. that any advantages would accrue to them, if All this, be it noted, as following the admirable | trade were permitted. And on the other hand, when tion of Burma with the Straits, particularly as to our rice supplies, we cannot but think that H.E. Sir John Anderson could hardly spend a month to more advantage, than in a run up to Rangoon, and in comparing notes ship fell over on her beam-ends and land was with Sir Thirkell White. Indeed, this is more | 25 miles distant. The cold was most intense, probable than possible, because it is to be re- and a small party set out for help, being nearly membered that Sir John's con is a member of frozen to death before reaching land, where the Burma Civil Service, and it is not at all some fishermon received them humanely. But unlikely that Sir John Anderson may think of | the water came back again, the ship refloated paying an early visit to Burms, primarily from and they made haste southwards, arriving at of the Straits Settlements. The possibilities obviously do not end heres The existence of the entente cordiale suggest that more should be done by the Governor of this Colony, than marely accord friendly civilities to the French Governor General of Indo-Chins on the occasion of that official passing through Singapore for Suigen or Hunoi, or returning this way to France. It is obviously of the highest advantage that both the Governors of the Straits Settlements and of Hongkong, should be on those close and am'able terms with the Governor-General of lado-Chins, that can only be fully attained, by personal visits and an exchange of hospitalities. " As to Siam again, over and over agair; entirely without prejudice to the control of the Colonial and Foreign Offices, it might well redound to the mutual welfare of Siam and the Straits, were the Governor of this Colony to pay occasional friendly visits to our good neighbour the King of Siam, who is himself so well and favourably known, from his visits should all desire. The King and his suite are to go to Europe this spring, and we are sure that his Majesty, who is the type of an en lightened and progressive Eastern monarch, will not lack the spontaneous and cordial wel come, that he has so fully secured on his previous visits to Singapore. Our remarks are a plea for the general and inevitable advantages that must accrue to countries or dependencies possessing common interest and general points of contact, were the chief administrators to have free recourse to those personal association and to that direct friendly intercourse, that may provide a far better guarantee for cordial relations and mutual good fellowship, than all the formal treaty provisions or departmental regulations in the world.

"PASSED GUTZLAFF!"

The Shanghai Mercury says:—Standing before the Customs notice-poard we read such and such a ship "passed Gutzlaff" at such and such n'time, Yes, we know it is some place outside Woosing, where there is a lighthouse and signal station. But how many of us know why it has that curious name? It is so called because a Prussiau, named Carl Gutzlaff, passed up this coast on his way to Tientsin in a Chinese junk of 250 tons burden, in the year 1831, perhaps the first foreigner we know anything of who ever sailed up bere on a purely philanthropic rrand. Next to Morrison, his name is the best known in those early missionary annals.

Born in 1803 in a small Prussian town, the an ode of welcome which so pleased his mejesty that he cared for his future education. When he reached Batavis, he was only twenty-four, and very soon mastered Malny and Chinese, revealing a wonderful linguistic gift, as we see by the list of books he wrote during his life in six different languages. A mandarm asserted that he was the son of a mandaria who had sailed to Enrope, and thus knew the lauguage. At Singapore and Bangkok he saw many junks from China, and he longed to beard one and go on an exploration of the Chinese coast. He was of a bolder and more adventurous disposition than Morrison. At Malacca he met Miss Newell, who had been sent out in 1827 for the purpose of founding schools for girls. She appears to be the first English single lady who came out to the Far East for this purpose. She married Gutzleff, and encouraged him in his desire to go on this extraordinary and hitherto untried voyage. Imagine the smallness of the junk, the entire absence of foreign company, and the dangers of such a trip, and yet even when he was ill and could get the chance he went on board with his boxes of books and medicines, resolved to emulate the dauntless pioneers of the Catholic church. His cabin was a small hole, only large enough to lie down in, and to receive a small box. He sailed in the capacity of second steersman, but the captain and the mates were all heavy opium-smokers. The fare was vile, the language obscene and abominable, and dangers lurked in the rocks and sheals, as well as on board. Plots were hatched more than once to brain him with a hatchet and seize the wealth they imagined his book boxes

On the 20th August, 1831, they reached Shanghai, which he describes in his Journal as. " laid out with great taste; the temples are very numerous; the houses next and comfortable; and the inhabitants polite, though rather servile in their manners." At the end of sixty days they renched Tientsin. There, notwithstanding his Chinese dress and Sinese features, a speculative individual offered to buy him from the captain of still remains the place of the detail in a general the junk in order to exhibit him as a curiosity. Leaving Tiontsin they sailed up as far as Chinchow, from which they turned Southwards, and after many dangers reached Macao. where he was kindly received by Dr. and Mrs.

This time he went as interpreter and surgeon on board the Honor able East India Company's ship The Lord Amheret. Her object was trade, but Gutzlaff did not forget his books. They visited Amoy, Forcebow, Formosa, Chasan, Ningpo, result from a periodical interchange of visits and on June 20th reached Shanghai. War junks banged away at them, the forts followed suit, mandarin heats put out from shore and tried to dissuade them from going up to the city, but their long bout outsailed them and got past, until they reached the temple of the Queen | that live in the water, according to everyday of Heaven (where our Customs house new stands.) Here they had a tilt with the Taotai, day purposes. But a whale or a seal is as would it not be of much advantage to him, who fiercely ordered them off to Canion as the much a mammal as a cow or a sheep. Is it if he could run down to Singapore, and make only place where berbarians were allowed to to be a mammal for the purposes of the treaty a short tour through the Native States, under trade. Several denunciatory proclamations the direct ciceroneship of H.E. the High were duly copied down, while the visitors held Commissioner and the Resident General? their ground. While walking through the Vice versa, it is quite easy to imagine streets Gutzlaff observed many whom he had leave all questions of this kind to be settled that ton days' stay in Hougkong on the part of seen on his first visit. Their ship remained Sir John Anderson would imply the presents- for some days at Woosung, but did not seem on the other side we can perfectly well conceive | district. But he remarks: "As the heat has been we were happy to leave this marshy country where all had fullen more or less sick. After that they visited Weihaiwei, and on July 17th sighted Corea and passed on to the Lon-shoo islands, finally returning to Macao to the Morrisons' house. His third voyage was made on the "Sylph" in 1832-3. They first made Manchuria and the Great Wall, but ran on a sand bank, the North winds blew all the water out to sea, so that the

RUSSO-JAPANESE NEGOTIATIONS

PESSIMISM UNJUSTIFIED.

Our St. Petersburg correspondent (says the Times) has more than once warned the public not to attach much importance to the pessimistic statements in the Russian Press about the negotiations now going on between Russia and Japan. He gives us a more detailed statement in the same sense which fully deserves to be called reassuring. He says that the persistence of misleading rumours has induced the plenipotentiaries to issue an authoritative statement on the subject, in order to calm public opinion and to reassure those who may be feeling gennine alarm. In all countries it may happen that a good deal of alarm is not wholly genuine There are often people who would like things to miscarry, and others who would profess alarm or any other emotion if they thought they could thereby embarrass the Government or their political opponents. But it seems that there has been real alarm in Russia in official circles as well as elsewhere, founded not so much upon the rumours in themselves as upon a general undefined uneasiness to which these rumours gave shape. The plenipotentiaries record the fact that they have just had a meeting, that the best feeling has been displayed on both sides, that they will resume their labours as soon as Mr. Motono returns from Paris, and that a communique is being prepared and will be issued abortly setting forth the details of the negotiations for the commercial and fishery conventions. It is satisfactory to learn that our alliance with Japan is held in Russia to be an important factor, greatly facilitating negotiations; and that this advantage reacts upon the relations between ourselves and Russia and will in turn have a favourable influence upon negotiations now pending.

A commercial treaty is not an easy thing to negotiate in the most favourable conditions. It involves consideration of a great mass of details, and numerous references to experts in many different branches of commerce in both countries. These cannot be settled offhand, nor can they be entirely settled on their own merits. because, when the merits are ascertained, there scheme, which must always be one of compromise. When, therefore, we are told that the negotiations on this point are almost completed, we may be assured that the plenipotentiaries have not been wasting their time and have not been held asunder by unreasonableness on either side. A fishery convention is also a difficult In 1833 he made a second voyage along the business, involving discussion of a great many points which emerge as soon as an attempt is made to put a general understanding into a precise and formal instrument. A river, a coastline, an estuary, an inlet-these are all very easy things to talk about and to understand in a general way, but they are not at all easy to define in view of infinitely various topographical details and local interests. A fishery itself, though simple enough for ordinary conversational purposes, has often raised questions which tax the judicial capacity of trained judges. What are fish ? . reatures notions which are accurate enough for everyor is it to be only a creature that lives in the water ? It is all very well for the House of Commons to hurry through a measuse and afterwards by costly litigation: but if diplomatists did their business in that way they might as well not exist.

We know generally from the Portsmouth treaty that there are other matters to be settled. procedent of the Three Admirals. Then again Ting island, and took a ramble in the Paoshan such as the navigation of the Sungari, the linking up of Russian and Manchurian railways, and the payment of the expenses of Russian prisoners in Japan. There is some imputience in Tokyo because these questions have not been more promptly arranged, and we should be sorry to say that it is not quite natural, Still it would be well to restrain it as far as possible by the reflection that the planipotentiaries are engaged in effecting a settle. ment of all outstanding difficulties, and that all more or less hang together. The alarmists in Itussia have invented questions which have no piece in the negotiations. For example, there was a scare about Japan asking for rights of navigation on the Amur, and deleful predictions that if she got these the superior business capacity of her sons would very quickly drive "Answering Penmint" is the call flag. All the Jupan has not demanded anything of the kind, knowing that by the treaty of Aigona the Amur is dealt with entirely as a Russo-Chinese question, which it is as a matter of geographical fact. # PROVED

That dandruff, itching scalp and falling bair, are caused by a germ or parasite is now recognized by dermatologists everywhere.

A notable demonstration was by Drs. Lassar and Bishop, who took dandruff scales from the head of a sindant who was losing his bair and having made a pomade of them with rasoline, rubbid the same upon a guinea-pig, and the pig became bald. (See Geo. Thom a Jackson, M.D. on diseases of skin, 4th edition).

Newbro's Herpicide kills the I germ that causes dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair, Keep your scalp in a sanitary condition with Herpicide and extraordinary results will follow: Stops itching of the scalp instantly. Try it.

AMERICA AND JAPAN.

[By H. J. Whigham in Evening Standard.] The Americans of the United States are a strange and volatile people. The mistake that state of the Blood, PROM WHATEVER CAUSE ARISING. We make about them lies in classing them with ourselves, under the generic term "Anglo-Saxon." Perhaps they are as Anglo-Saxon as popular than ever, the reason of this being undoubted—we are. But in our case the mixture of races because this wonderful remedy does what it dates back to a for earlier period. And so the Professes to do—it cures skin and blood diseases. American Anglo-Saxon differs as materially from the English Anglo-Saxon as the accent of Chicago differs from broad Yorkshire.

> In the minds of most Americans there is a composite picture of the Englishman, not very flattering perhaps, but at least possessing some attributes of aggressiveness and readiness to fight. The Britisher is supposed to be stupid and old-fashioned as an individual, but in his national character he is a pushing and unscrupulous landgrabber, always looking for a quarrel which may bring him new possessions. The American, on the other hand, is tremendously pggressive in business, but in his national capacity he is a sweetly reasonable person, who believes in universal arbitration, looks with scorn upon the militarism of Europe; and never covets his neighbour's vineyard. This is a pleasing picture, which imposes itself not only upon the native American but on some of his outside critics.

matter? Simply that the Americans are possibly the most bellicose people on the face of the earth at the present moment. The world looks upon the Japanese as a warlike race. They are not It is the only real specific for Cout and Rhoumstie | in it with the Americans. They are war ike in the sense that they know how to fight and also quotation of $87 is quite nominal. China how to prepare for a fight. But no one who has | Manilas have been on offer during the week, any knowldge of the history of the last ten years | but no sales have been effected, and the market | believes that the Japanese wanted to fight closes weaker at 21 sellers. Star Ferries have Russia, or that they entered upon the late war | changed hands in small lots at $29 & 29; for old with feelings of overweening confidence or thirst shares, closing with further buyers at the latter for the fray. On the contrary, they put off the rate. Shell Transports have improved with conflict until their independence was actually. threatened, and there was no time during the the market closing with further buyers at 31/6. previous negetiations when Russia might not have secured peace by taking up a reasonable

> But look at the Americans. They do not propare for war; but they revel in the thought of it. Two years ago New York was lending the Japanese Government money to carry on its war with Russia. The Press of America was the ardent champion of the "little f dlow" in the struggle. To-day there is hardly a man you will meet on Broadway who does not think that the "little fellow" is getting too big for his boots, and may sconer or later come into conflict with America. There is a fuss about some ninety-three school children in California, and immediately the hand clasps the sword and the point of honour is raised.

Of course, the war talk was largely moonshins. Down in Washington young naval officers as naval officers will-had assumed the ontbreak of bostilities, and were busy figuring out the losses and gains. In reality, the exact question at issue was never very carefully studied. To begin with, it is doubtful if there ever has been the slightest breach of treaty. If the question of the comity of nations were raised, the Jananese Government was well aware that the Federal anthorities at Washington had no power to coarce California in the matter of school regulations, and, therefore, no insuit could possibly be intended by the Government of the United States In order that there should be no doubt about the good feelings and intentions of the American executive Mr. Roosevelt has publicly asked California to be reasonable. Every one. Japanese included, knows that he can do no more. The Japanese, be it repeated, are perfeetly aware of the situation, and, I believe, never made any diplomatic representa-tion at Washington about the schools. It was Mr. Rost who took time by the forelock and made polite apologies through his Ambusader at Tokyo.

And so the war talk was largely absurd. But it was none the less significant, for it convinced any visitor to America how real the danger of at quotations, both closing with sellers. Powells war may become at any moment. You cannot convince an American that the struggle for supremacy in the Pacific is not inevitable. To begin with, he is sure that Japan wants the Philippines. Very few Americans really want the Philippines for themselves. But every American would fight to a finish to prevent Japan getting them. Then there is the trade question. During the past year America has lost about 33 per cent of her trade with China, and she has lost it to Japan. Manchuria used to be a special market for American piece goods. Now Japan, being on the spot, and having control of the railway, is able to oust American manufactures. There, at once, are two elements of danger.

On the other hand, the movement to exclude Japanese from America is growing in impetus. An exclusion Bill will doubtless be brought before Congress in a year or so, in spite of President Roosevelt's efforts to keep it back. If such a Bill should pass, and it should apply to American possessions like the Howsian Islands, where Japanese now go in their thousands, then the danger of war would become scute. But the point is that siready the warlike spirit is abroad in the land.

We other Auglo-Saxons could live for centuries on such a volcano and never suffer an eruption. The "inevitable" war with Russia, for example, has been postponed for at least two generations, and now happily may be averted for ever. We don't even went to fight with Germany. We have become, in fact, like the Chinese, who never fight unless driven to it, and then with a feeling that war is an unbecoming way of settling disputes between civilised neople. But our American cousins are quite different. They would rather fight than not. And they would fight for a pure soutiment. The recent war talk was very significant in this respect. If they had been English Anglo-Saxons they would have been full of the commercial less which America is suffering in the Far East. That would have been something worth fighting about. As a matter of fact, the word trade was never once mentioned. No one ever thought about it. The feeling was either racial or it involved the point of honour. The Anglo-Saxons of the West would rather die than give up the Philippines, which they acquired by accident, and have found a considerable nuisance ever since the acquisition.

Where they do resemble us is in their serone indifference to the possibilities of defeat. They would be beaten ut liest. Every sensible American knows that. But the resources of America are boundless. It a few years an invincible fleet would be built, at an expense which, after all, would be no greater than is being incurred by one or two railroads in New York at the present time.

America berself is practically invulnerable, and in course of time she would come through triumphant, having at the cost of much blood and treasure reconquered the Philippines.

JOINT STOCK SHARES.

Messre. Vernon & Smyth say in their weekly share report dated Hongkong lat February, 1907.—The market has ruled quieter during the week, with in most cases a tendency to weakness in rates, and without any special features. Exchange on London T/T, 2/2.11-16, on Shanghai Tls. 73.

BANKS .- Hongkong and Shanghais have receded; and sales have been made at the reduced rate of $925 for cash, white a small demand for March has not been productive of business, sellers demanding higher rates than buyers are prepared to give at the tomeut. The market closes, fairly steady will a few small sellers at 8925. Nationals have been placed during the week at the advanced rate of $50 and $51, closing with further buyers at the latter rate.

MARINE INSURANCES .- Unions have found further buyers at $800, and close steady at that rate. North Chinas are on offer at $80, and an offer at a lower rate would find buyers. Cantons have been placed at $295, and more shares are obtainable at the rate. Yangtezes have been sold to the north at $1571. China Traders remain unchanged and without business.

FIRE INSURANCES,- Hongkong Fires have found further buyers at $375, but the market closes quiet at that rate. Chinas have again changed hands at $95, and a few more small lots Now what is the truth about the whole could probably be placed at that.

Shipping,-Hongkong, Canton and Macaos continue steady at $3 1, and a few sales have been made during the week, the market closing with an inclination to a higher rate. Indos have been quite neglected, and the closing small sales to 31/6, after sales at 30/6, & 31/.

REFINERIES .- China Sugars have continued to rule stendy, and a few sales have been made at $130, more shares being wanted at time of closing. Luzous remain unchanged and without business. MINING .- Raubs have been placed during the week at $37, closing rather weaker with a few small lots on offer at $81, We have nothing else to report nuder this heading.

DOCKS, WHARVES AND GODDWNS .- Hongkong and Whampox Docks continue out of favour, and the rate has fallen to $144 with sales, the market closing with further sellers and no buyers over $143. Kowloon Wharves with sales at $95, close/steady at that rate, but with probable sellers. Shanghai Docks, after touching Tis. 110, close algioter with sellers in the north at Th. 107, Shanghai and Hongkew Whirves have been negotiated locally, in a small way, at Tle. 215 our new issue. New Amoy Docks unchanged and without business. LANDS-HOTELS AND BUILDINGS. -Hongkong Lands remain steady at $107h ac div. of $33 paid on the 29th ult. West Points remain in request at 850 ex div. paid on the 23th ult. of 324. Kowloon Lands, after the publication of the report recommending the payment of a divident of $2.50, and currying forward $1089.15, have improved to $395 with buyers. Hongkong Hotels, being in demand, and with no shares obtainable, have improved to Si21 with buyers. Humphreys Estates have been the medium of a fair business at $12. This Company's report just issued recommends the payment of a dividend of 80 cents and the carrying forward $11.567.15 to new account. COTTON MILES -there are no changes or business to report.

MISCELLANEOUS. - China Providents have been placed at $4.60 and $9.70 ex the dividend of 8) cents paid on the 28th ultime. Cements. have been placed at $21 and $21; closing with sellers at the latter rate. Electrics have sellers at $16, with no sales to report. Hougking Ices have been done at $25 , and a small demand exists at that rate at time of closing. China Lights and Wafsons have been placed have improved to $71 with sales.

The Daily Telegraph says: Those of ou readers who have not overlooked our daily reports upon the state of the market, nor failed to observe the steady advance in the value of the shares of companies owning Ceylon and Indian plantations, will not be unprepared to hear that the ten-producing industry, which has been beset with difficulties for several years, now emerging into a position of greater security, and that the home trade, an important factor of the movement now taking place, finds itself at the close of the year in a condition of prosperous activity. The operatives causes of this satisfactory state of affairs are many, and their cumulative force makes the movement programt with the promise of stability.

Summing up in a single sentence all the has contributed to the change, it may be said that in consequence of the increased use ten and the failure of some of the producing countries to maintain or enlarge their out put, the total annual supply now available barely equal to, if not short of, the world requirements, and that as there are no beavy accumulations of stock anywhere existing, the law of supply and demand, unaided unimpeded by the intervention of speculators, is bringing about the natural result, viz., a. higher level of value.

The beginning of the movement in the home market can be traced to the reduction in the duty from Ed to 6d per lb in June, 1905, which was followed by increased consumption an immediate advance in the higher-priced varieties of eventually by a corresponding decline in the commonest qualities, a result unfavourable to producers of the latter kinds, but advantageous to the majority of growers, and also to those who trade in ten at home, the dealers, blenders, and grocers, who find that a wide instead of a narrow range of value tends to increase the volume of business and conduces to its more prolitable working. The remission of another ld of the tax last May has also proved beneficial, although least of all to consumers, because it was found difficult to make a corresponding reduction in ratail prices. Of the total remitted by the last two Budgets producers have not until now received much share--it has been divided between the public and the trade-but they have had stronger markets wherein to sell their crops, and now that the altered position cannot be ignored, competition between the buyers to acquire stock has substantially raised the price.

The average obtained for all the Indian tea sold here by growers this season is only 8d, compared with 7fd in 1905 and 7fd in 1904; but for the last six weeks sales it has been Sid, contrasted with 71d in 1905 and 71d in 1904. The average price for all the Ceylon tea sold this year is 710 compared with 7d in 1905 and 74d in 1904; but for the last six weeks sales it is 8sd, against 74d in 1905 and 74d in 1904.

The total home consumption up to the present time shows an increase of 10,500,000lb, and it is expected that when the Customs' returns are published in January the year's delivery for home use will be shown to be about 270,000,000%, as against 250,000,00016 1905 a result unexpected by those who thought the country was already "saturated" with tea, but foreshadowed in our review of the twelve months ugo. Growth consumption, however, large though it Is not the most striking feature the year, which is unquestionably the stronger call for British-grown tea from other markets, which has led to an aggregate increase of about 23,000,000lb in the quantity taken for the Colonies and foreign markets from Calcutta, Colombo, and London, and has raised the total for the year to nearly 150,000,000lb, which is almost equal to the entire combined production of Coylon and India sixteen years ago:

For many years much money has been spent by the planters in advertising the merits of their produce in America and elsewhere, and much strengous work has been done by London dealers and shippers to push its sale it all directions. The result is now maturing. Russia is the largest outside buyer, followed by Australia and America, but the published statistics show that almost everywhere more is being taken. This movement deserves the the closest attention, because it may indicate not merely that at the moment our teas are being used in preference to other kinds, or to make good the shortness of their supply, which might be reversed next year, but because it may be a sign that the Anglo-Saxon habit of tea-drinking, and of using good black instead of green tea, is coming into fashion elsewhere. When it is realised that in the German Empire 60,000,000 people use annually less than three ounces, in Austria-Hungary 48,000,000 use about three-quarters of an ounce, and in France 39,000,000 use only one ounce per head, whereas here we use 6 15 and in British Colonies from 5 lb to 7 lb per head per annum, the potentialities of the vast markets existing at our doors are obvious. The possibility that these teeming populations, may some day turn from coffee and lager-beer to tea has supplied an incentive to planting enterprise in the past, and now lends interest to the future. But it should not be overlooked by the sanguine souls who are tempted to discount it, that a good deal of this year's foreign trade may have been created by the cheapness of the lower grades suitable for export, and may not continue at the higher level of value now ruling.

As attention is being directed to the chance of a further rise in the market next year, which might pltimately compel the grocers to withdraw from sale the cheapest tea now offered in their shops, unless the existing tax of 5d per lb be substantially reduced, it may be well to examine the several sources of supply, and see what they are yielding.

There is the Dutch island of Java. Its production has now reached about 30,000,000lb. and grows by 1,000,0001b or 2,000,0001b yearly So far we have only received, 16,000,000lb from this source.

2. Japan, shipping this season some 32.000,000lb to America, none of it usable here a trade that has declined as ours advanced, and is hampered by increased cost of production. America took nearly 10,000,000lb more from Japan seven years ago than it does now that

S. Chine, whose total export, though about equal to last season's has fallen from 300,000,: 00lb to 160,000,000lb in twenty yours. Less than 6,000,000th, of it are now used here out of the 270,000,000th we consume. According to U.S.A. Vice-Consul Arnold, the decline of the China trade is due to careless native" methods, exhausted soil, imperfect cultivation, and the illicit practices of the packers; here, we attribute it to the superior excellence and the lower cost of production of British-grown tea.

4. Coylon, which is a more hopeful source of supply, for although much less than last year has lately been shipped to London, it is altogether premature to infer that the soil and the bushes have lost more than can be restored by plentiful manuring; truer reasons for the check to the increased production hitherto obtained year by year are that the weather has advisedly thanked Mr. Shaw for his lecture, been unfavourable, and that lighter plucking has

It has not been attained by excessive placking of overgrown leaf, for this crop is a good average one, and the last was exceptionally good. It has been achieved, first, by replacing worn out sections of the gardens by newly-planted areas on more fertile soil which are now yielding freely; secondly, by more scientific and not costly methods o manuring, particularly by the system called green manuring" now widely adopted. has been ascertained that leguminous trees, shrubs, and annual green crops, grown amongst the tea provide the organic matter and the nitrogen required by the tes bush for its fullest development, and that they also improve the tilth of the soil by penetration of rootlets underground. This was known long to Sir James Buckingham and other of the successful pioneer planters in Assam, but the full extent to which it wil. benefit the estates was not generally recognised until proved by recent exhaustive experiments by Dr. Harold Mann and Mr. Hutchinson, th scientific officers of the Planters' Association in India. Valuable work on similar lines has also been done in Caylon by Messra Bamber and Wright. Green manuring alons does not suffice to restore old and exhausted land nor does it entirely displace other manures, but its extension and development will prove to be of great benefit to the industry.

Knowledge of the foregoing facts by those connected with estates has probably prompted the recent strong inquiry for Indian companies shares as much as the improved state of th produce market. The results of this year operations will not be generally publishad before the and of the season, although a few companies are now issuing statements showing what has been so far done. It has transpired, however, that many of them are doing unusually well, and it is expected that very good results will be shown by some of the estates in the north-eastern parts of Assam and in the 'ooars. Large profits, however, may not be apiformly the rule; all gardens have not made heavier crops, and some have so far obtained a lower price for their tea. Investors who have not sound the channels through which such useful information flows will there fore do well to search for them.

The expansion in trade is shown by the following official figures for eleven month

AND THE GUILD OF ST MATTHEW,

MR. STUART HEADLAM'S DEFENCE. The Guild of St. Matthew met at Clifford Ion Hall on Dac. 21st. to hear the Rev. S. D. Headlam's defence of his action in presiding at the recent lectures by Mr. Bernard Shaw, at Essex Hall, on "Some Necessary Repairs to Religion. Mr. Headlam said that he knew from a twenty-live years' experience that Mr. Shaw was in doud enginest about life - (cheers)-and he felt that it would be a matter of great interest to the thuild if they could get him to come to them and rehearso the articles of his belief. On the reports in the Press most virulent attacks had been made on him, on the Guild, and on Mr. Shaw, but no such attacks had been made by anyone who heard the lecture. The Bishop of London was inundated with letters of protest. and wrote and remonstrated with him, and he had written to the Bishop in reply, stating that the Guild of St. Matthew was a society Catholic Socialists, and opposed to anything which Mr. Shaw said which was contrary to the Catholic faith. If he (the Bishop) wanted formal repudiation by him of anything in M: Shaw's lecture which was contrary to the catholic faith, he thereby made it. But warned the Bishop that a large proportion of the lecture was regadiation by Mr. Shaw of a lot of rubbish, and worse, which had been allowed accumulate round the Catholic faith, and which was seriously damaging to their tioly religiou. Whoever cast away that rubbish was doing good service to the . hurch. For helping to do that, and for making a most valuable profession of faith, Mr. Shaw deserved their thanks, their encouragement, their prayers. As warden of the Guild for thirty years, he had found that men and women in earnest about life had broken away from the Church and the Christian religion on account of the intolerable teaching they had received from the clergy, Sunday school teachers, day school teschers, both in Church schools and board schools. That teaching was making Atheists wholesale. He knew that the lecture gave pain, he dare say that what he now said would give pain, but that could not be helped. You could not destroy the evil of 300 years of Protestant Bible worship without giving pain to the worshippers. After considering and roconsidering the whole matter, as he had indeed been-forced to do during the last-fortnight, hemade no kind of apology for his action, or the Guild's sotion; he thought they had done just what, according to their principles, they were bound to do, and he again openly and and he added his belief that the giving of it

OUR GOLD RESERVES.

There was a crowded attendance at meeting of the Institute of Bankers held in the City of London Institute last month, at which Sir Felix Schuster, read a paper ou "Our Gold Reserves." Mr. J. Spencer Phillips, President of the Institute of Bankers, was in

Sir Felix Schuster said that in dealing with the subject there should be a clear understanding on two points-first, what was meant by reserves, and secondly, whose duty was it to see that a gold reserve sufficient for the needs of the nation is kept? By a national gold reserve was meant such a reserve of gold as might be available at all times and as would ensure ability to meet without difficulty, strain, or disturbance to our trade all demands that might suddenly arise for payment in gold of the obligations expressed in legal tender. As a creditor nation it was in our power is normal times to attract gold here, and owing to that fact we had been able towork for so many years with a comparatively slender stock of gold, and the thought suggested itself that, this being so, only a return to the old condition of affairs seemed necessary, and that there was no need for further precautions. Yet that there is such need was almost universally admitted, and it was felt that no provision was made, and that provision should be made, for conditions which used to be abnormal, and which were now tending to arise more frequently. The forces which attract gold here in the accustomed way move more slowly than those sudden demands which the rapidity and volume of modern business bring forth, and in the interval a position of danger may be created, producing violent movements. in the value of money and causing distrust and disturbance of trade. Nearly all dommercial nations are gradually adopting a gold standard, hence the demands on us are increased, while the supplies are to some extent diverted elsewhere. Thus the necessity for an increase of the national reserve of gold was amply proved. The reserve of the Book of England was universally looked upon as the one intended for the purpose. There was no other in the country. Whose duty was it to see that such a reserve was maintained? In his opinion it did not seem to follow that the duty and responsibility need necessarily carry with them the entire burdens involved. One of the first duties of every State was to provide a sound currency, but the development of banks had prevented the circulation of notes and. consequently the stock of gold from assuming larger proportions, and thus it seemed only right that out of their own reserves some small contribution to a central reserve should Sir Felix Schuster advocated a census as to the holding of Bank of England notes and of gold by all the banks of the country on a particular day. While the census was being taken he suggested that a committee composed of representatives of the various banking interests should consider the following points: (1) The monthly publication of averages by all the banks. (2) The publication by the Bank of Enguand of the bankers' balances in the aggregate, but separately from its other liabilities, either weekly or monthly, as may be decided upon; if monthly averages only, then an annual return also. (3) The formation of a second reserve on the following lines: (a) Each bank to contribute a certain percentage of its liabilities on current account repayable on demund, according to its average figures for the preceding year. What such proportion should be it is most difficult to decide without the exact ligures before us. It would be excessive to ask each bank to contribute gradually and by slow degrees an amount equivalent to about 2 percent, or say, I percent of the total liabilities on current and deposit. account. The London clearing banks, for themselves and as agents for other banks, would pay over these amounts to the Bank of England to be held by it in gold separatly from its ordinary accounts. Each year the amount so held might be re-adjusted according to the respective proportions. The conditions of the holding of such a separate stock of gold to be laid down as under. This would eventually provide for, say £8,000,000. (b) The Government Savinus Banks, whose liabilities are, if not technically on demand, practically so, to contribute an equal proportion, which would amount to £4,000,000. This would be only a very small contribution considering that banks keep about 15 per cent or more in reserve against such liabilities. (c) A small permanent committee, to be formed of representatives of the bankers, to act with the Bank of England; without the committee's sanction the special reserve should never be used, and such sanction should be given only under circumstances of exceptional emergency. Such a committee would form a nucleus of a general consultative committee with the Bank of England, the want of which has been long felt, and thus a step would be taken to bring about that co-operation, between the banks that so many have advocated.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

all nature, so to speak is reasoneked by the scientific for the comfort and happiness of mans. Science has indeed made grant strides during the past century, and among the -by no means least important discoveries in medicine comes that of Therapion, everintroduced, and has, we understand, been used in the Continental Hospitals by Ricord, Rostan, olert, Velpenu, Maisonneuve, the well-known Chassalgune, and indeed by all those who are regarded as authorities in such matters, including the relebrated Lallemand, and Roux, by whom it was some time since maiformly adopted, and that it is worthy the attention of those who require such a remedy we think there is no doubt. From the time of Aristotle 'swuwards, a potent agent in the removal of these diseases has dikethe famed philosopher's stone been the object of search of some hopeful, generous minus; and far beyond the mere power if such could ever have been discovered-of transmining the baser metals into gold is surely the discovery of a remedy so potent as to replenish the failing energies of the comfirmed rouf in the one case, and in the other so effectually, speedily and safely to expel from the system without the aid, or even the knowledge, of a second party, the poisons of acquirell or inherited disease in all their protean forms as to leave notatut or trace behind.
Such is The New Preach Remedy Therapion, which may certainly rank with, if not take precedence of, many of the discoveries of our day, about which no little astentation and noise have been made, and the extensive and ever-increasing demand that has been created for this medicine wherever introduced appears to prove that it is destined to cast into oblivion all those questionable remedies that were formerly the sole reliance of medical men. Therapion may be obtained in England-direct from the proprietor, and of the principal Chemists and Merchants throughout the Colonies, India, China, Japan, &c., not ven excluding such remote districts as Central Africa, the Fiji Islands, St. Helena Kr. - Diamend Fields Advertiser KIMBERLEY Sold by all Principal Chemists 2613
